

Madhya Pradesh Bhoj Open University, Bhopal

Social Responsibility Cell

As a University committed to higher learning and value education, Madhya Pradesh Bhoj Open University takes cognizance of social issues and demonstrates its commitment to promoting the welfare of society. A Social Responsibility Cell is hereby instituted to realize our commitment to promoting social progress.

Profile of the cell

The Cell will undertake various social initiatives such as organizing community outreach campaigns, organizing awareness programs, supporting local health centers, and addressing the different social issues in society. The cell will work towards addressing social issues like poverty, illiteracy, health and hygiene, human rights, and gender disparities, among others.

The initiatives of the cell will be directed to achieve sustainable and inclusive development.

Objectives of the Cell

1. To create awareness among students, faculty, and staff about various social issues and promote a culture of social responsibility within the University community.
2. To organize community outreach programs aimed at addressing issues like poverty, illiteracy, health, and hygiene, among others.
3. To foster engagement with local communities to promote sustainable and inclusive development.
4. To provide a platform for students, faculty, and staff to participate in social initiatives and volunteer for meaningful causes.
5. To build partnerships with NGOs, government agencies, and other stakeholders to collaborate and address social issues more effectively.
6. To promote research on social issues to enhance knowledge and understanding of the challenges faced by society and identify solutions to address them.
7. To organize events and activities that promote social responsibility and encourage more people to get involved in creating a positive impact in society.
